NO ONE NEED GO HUNGRY AT FAIR

Women of City Do Rushing Business at Quick Lunch Booths.

No one will want for good food on the fair grounds this year—not if a big corps of first class cooks can help it. The women from seven church organizations and from the Women's Relief corps have undertaken to feed the hungry crowds of fair goers and at the same time make some money to promote their several purposes. And it will be "some" money, too, if the first day's business may be taken as criterion. One of the tents alone served 67 breakfasts! At noon the rush was so great that the money, at 50 cents per, couldn't be counted in time to give an official report of patronage. The menus offered in the various tents run from pop and peanuts to pork and beans. And potatoes, even if they do cost fifty cents per bushel, are being fried and mashed, and roasted and hashed by the barrel. One of the pictures above shows Mrs. Lettie Hasley, 708 E. Wayne st., "official potato peeler" of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Presbyterian church, busy at her job. The picture was taken before 10 o'clock in the morning and she had already peeled a bushel and a half of Irishers. No wonder she got the job! Standing beside Mrs. Hasley and urging her to "peel close", is Mrs. William Newman, president of the society, sporting a coy little Irish crochet cap.

In this day of broadening church activities, it is not at all startling to find a church society engaged in selling pop. The Ladies' Aid of the English Lutheran has a number of members who have taken to selling pop as though they had been brought up to it with Ringling Bros. Among these are Mrs. L. McCorkle, 1907 Sherman av. and Mrs. J. C. Rasmussen, 410 Sherman av. Other churches which are having no trouble in separating hungry folks from loose change are the Grace M. E., Westminster Presbyterian, Indiana Avenue Christian, River Park M. E., Lowell Heights M. E., the First Brethren and the Helping Hand Sunday school of the Mishawaka M. E.

HEALTHWIN SHOWN IN MINIATURE AT FAIR

Anti-Tuberculosis League Has Interesting Exhibit—W. C. T. U. Also in Display.

Two booths devoted to the spread of information regarding the work of their respective organizations, have been arranged by the Anti-tuberculosis league and the St. Joseph County Women's Christian Temperance union on the fair grounds near the Woman's building and are attracting much interested attention.

A miniature of Healthwin hospital 19 to 12 inches high and six feet long is the principal exhibit feature of the Anti-tuberculosis league booth. The little white paste-board institution is an exact reproduction of the hospital as it stands out near the four-mile bridge, with administration building, incipient and advanced wards and shacks. It is placed on a large table, covered with green cloth and laid out as the hospital grounds are with macadam roads and walks. Through one end a tiny stream winds. Many people have never seen Healthwin and its miniature is being subjected to the closest scrutiny.

The walls of the tent which it occupies are hung with striking posters designed to spread the doctrine of fresh air as the surest preventive and curative measure against tuberculosis. A spot map of South Bend showing the number of deaths in the city from tuberculosis during the past three years talks for itself. Another poster gives the annual death in the city from tuberculosis since 1903 as follows: 1909, one hundred and thirty-one; 1910, one hundred and forty-one; 1911, one hundred and twenty-five; 1912, one hundred and twenty-two; 1913, one hundred and seventeen; 1914, one hundred and five. The consistent decrease speaks well for the work of the Anti-tuberculosis league and the County Tuberculosis hospital.

Mrs. R. C. Ralback, president of the County W. C. T. U., is in charge of the W. C. T. U. tent and is handing out quantities of literature. The walls of the tent are hung with a number of interesting posters, boosting national prohibition. The tent has also been furnished with chairs and a couch for the comfort of women and children.

QUICK ADVANCEMENT.

Fond mother of absent Guardsman—I knew Jack would distinguish himself with the regiment, and he has!

The neighbor who has dropped in—Ah! On guard on the border, isn't he?

Fond mother—Better than that! Why, his letter says he's right in the guardhouse itself!—Judge.

Young Wild Deer Part of An Exhibit From Minnesota

Among the hundreds of interesting exhibits at the Inter-State fair in an agricultural and industrial exhibit from Minnesota, the North Star state, Fred D. Sherman, Minnesota's immigration commissioner, accompanied by Col. W. C. King and J. C. Cedarstrom, arrived here Monday from the Indianapolis State fair, and have pitched a large tent near the grand stand, where they have placed on display one of the most interesting and attractive exhibits to be seen on the grounds. As a special attraction, Mr. Sherman has brought with him a young wild deer named "Nellie" and she is attracting a great deal of attention. This young deer was captured by a homesteader in northern Minnesota when but a few days of age. This pioneer farmer in northern Minnesota found her entangled in brush and she was an easy captive. He took her to his home and kept her until a few weeks ago, when he presented her to the Minnesota state board of immigration, to be exhibited at the various fairs. This, in brief, is how "Nellie," the young wild deer, came to leave her home in the great pine forests of northern Minnesota and become an attraction at our local fair.

13 Kids Lost on Opening Day At Fair Grounds

Tuesday was "Lost Children's day" with the police department at the fair grounds. Thousands of school children flocked to the fair, some with their parents and some with other groups of children. Three of them had strayed away from their companions or parents and had been found by officers, at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

Most of the wanderers were later reclaimed by their parents or neighbors who volunteered to take them home. One little blue-eyed boy about five years old, was quartered with the police for about two hours, in a vain effort to find out his name. Every question brought a shake of the head. He was sure that he "lived in the alley" but he did not know his name. The patrol was called and he was taken to the station where his father later found him.

Mrs. William Wagner, 1402 Lincoln way W., reported the loss of her seven-year-old son. He was later returned to her by the police. Kenneth Brewer, eight years old, living on E. Fourth st., Mishawaka was returned to his home by a neighbor. Paul Gerber, 115 E. Ohio st., strayed away from his mother who later reclaimed him at police headquarters. Richard Huston, 115 E. Navarre st., was taken to his home, in the patrol wagon. He was found wandering around after dark. Harriet Myers, Hammond ct., was lost at the Studebaker tent and was brought to the police, who found her mother for her. Ada Mikesell, 11 years old, 710 Laporte av., was returned to her home by a neighbor.

Charles Loomis, 10 years old, 817 S. Rush st., was taken sick at the grounds and was removed to his home in the police ambulance. Kenneth Lockwood, 708 E. Fifth st., Mishawaka, was returned to his mother by the police. Adam Marquette, 924 S. Franklin st., was lost but his brothers took him home. Gordon Gobis, six-year-old, Kearslake ct., River Park, was identified by a neighbor and conducted safely home.

Mrs. E. J. Katerman, 309 S. Notre Dame st., reported the loss of a blue silk lady's sweater, while one of the special officers found a watch which may be had by calling at headquarters.

Police have advised fair visitors to report all lost articles to them, and have issued a warning against autoists paying strangers for parking autos on the streets.

MEL TROTTER COMING

Mel Trotter, the noted evangelist, will be in South Bend Oct. 1st. He will address an audience at the First M. E. church at 10:45 a. m., and will speak again in the evening at the High school auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

Who Started it? Asks John Chess

J. C. ELLSWORTH.

"Who said I wouldn't be here?" John Chess wants to know. Somebody started the rumor that he would remain in the east the rest of the summer, but he alighted from a westbound train Monday night and was one of the first men on the grounds Tuesday morning.

"Not be on deck for the fair? Why I could hardly wait till I got here. I never missed a fair in my life. I took my first squint at a county fair over the sides of a baby-car and nothing's been able to keep me away from 'em since."

Anyone who thinks the fair book isn't the liveliest one that ever came down the pike hadn't better air his views in the presence of John Chess and expect to get away with it, because that book has been John Chess' hobby for about six months—his "avocation" as he has fondly called the job of compiling it.

This photo looks considerably like T. R., but it isn't. It's J. C. Ellsworth alright, but his grin and Teddy's were cut after the same pattern.

DEALERS' BOOTHS DRAWING CROWDS

Dancing Pavilion One of the Best Decorated Buildings on Grounds.

One of the best decorated buildings on the Inter-State fair grounds is the dancing pavilion down in the amusement park where the merchants and manufacturers are displaying their exhibits in scores of booths. This building is one of the big attractions of the fair as there are displayed those things most used by the general public.

Each merchant has made an effort to outdo the other in the matter of decoration. This has resulted in an artistic and interesting assortment of exhibits, equalling anything of the sort ever shown in this section of the state. Practically every merchant and manufacturer in the city has a booth in the dancing pavilion and the fair visitors are urged to view this building.

Two exhibits stand out prominently in the merchants pavilion. A. H. Heller has an attractive booth the roof of which is formed by solid branches of oak leaves. The room is set to resemble a sitting room, the furniture being of mahogany and of the Adam period design. Four Edison phonographs add to the charm of the booth, each in different styles of design. Chipendale, Sheridan, Adam and Louis XV. models are shown. Attendees are always present to answer queries about the machines or the store.

Another unique booth is that of the Ellsworth store, displaying fall styles in women's garments and hats. The color scheme of the booth is purple and gold, purple draperies being used at two windows represented at the sides of the booth. A pillar draped in purple supporting the roof. Gold cloth is used extensively in decorating the exterior of the booths.

Plenty of Meat is Served on Grounds

Wednesday Morning.

Plenty of meat cooked as should be cooked was dished up at the big barbecue held in the race enclosure at 11 o'clock. S. J. Riley of Bristol, Ind., was the chef and as a chef Mr. Riley ranks high. Since 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mr. Riley labored, and his efforts were well rewarded by the praise of the partakers of the feast.

A quartered beef was swung across a pit filled with live coals and assumed the most appetizing brown color and flavor. Liberal samples of the food was dished out by Mr. Riley and his assistants.

Chewing gum has cost the American people for chicle alone nearly $25,000,000 in the last 10 years, or almost five times as much as we paid Russia for Alaska.

PONIES KEPT ON JUMP

Going Day and Part of Night at Fair Grounds.

There are two little fellows out at the Inter-State fair grounds doing more work and staying on the job longer than any dozen men around the exposition. They scurry here and there, stopping only long enough to do their duty and then hurrying on again to another point on the grounds.

The industrious ones are Eaden and Mack M. E. P. Dailey's team of tiny ponies. Hitched to a small wagon and driven by a young man, the miniature team does a mountain of work each day. Here and there they go with barely a stop, getting in and out of places where it would be impossible for regular horses and vehicles to go. The little fellows are among the most willing workers on the grounds and just watch Eph Dailey when he passes them. No matter how busy he may be, he always stops to give one or the other of his favorite workers a pat and a word.

HUSBANDRY DAY IS HELD AT FAIR TODAY

have a lax moment from the time the racing started until it closed. The first event started promptly and the starter had little trouble in getting the horses off as was evidenced by the fact that the card was completed by 4:30 o'clock, giving plenty of time for the race fans to wander through the various exhibits and along the midway, one of the big attractions. The fair officials plan on having the racing card completed every afternoon by 5 o'clock promptly and the result of the plan on the first day is evidence of fulfillment of the promise.

Trained Horses Novelty.

Between heats and previous to the racing program the crowds were entertained by band concerts. One of the features of the free entertainment was Madame Madantette's trained horses. The animals danced and pranced, waltzed and two stepped while one of the big attractions was the jumper which took a six foot hurdle with ease. The opening feature of this attraction was a team composed of an ostrich and a horse driven by their owner along the track. The antics of the ostrich brought roars of laughter and amusement from the grand stand crowds.

Another free entertainment feature of the afternoon was the singing of Bert Morphy, "the man who sings to beat the band." Morphy's voice lived up to its reputation and the crowds joined the man with the big voice as he sang popular airs, accompanied by the concert band. The three French acrobats girls entertained with aerial acrobatics, the stunt being a novel and interesting outdoor act. C. J. Allard of the Orpheum theater is in charge of the free entertainment features of the fair, having booked the attractions performing this week.

Weather is Ideal.

The weather was ideal for the fair opening. Tuesday was Children's day and hundreds of school pupils from South Bend, Mishawaka and other points in the county were on the grounds. Schools were closed yesterday in order to permit the "kids" to attend the big event and they took advantage of the opportunity. There were many things to attract children, special stunts being arranged for their benefit, such as the flower show, the stock judging contests and other events. A track and field meet for the boys and girls was scheduled but it was necessary to postpone this event until Centennial week as the horsemen refused to permit the athletes on the race course.

Fair and racing authorities are unanimous in declaring the second Inter-State fair one of the best in the history of the central states.

Everybody Pleased.

"There's nothing that can beat it declared, "one agricultural expert who attends many fairs throughout the country.

"The track is in good condition and its location is ideal," asserted a race horse man who travels the circuits every season.

MEN HELD CONFESS TO TWO ROBBERIES

Elwood Igo and Jack Wilson Are Arrested by Police.

When arrested early Wednesday morning on suspicion a man who gave his name as Elwood Igo and residence as Springfield, Ill., confessed to the robbery of Andrews' motorcycle shop on Sample st., just west of Michigan st.

He told the officer that he and two accomplices entered through the back window of the shop but declared that for his share of the loot, he received but 50 cents in pennies. The full extent of the loss to the shop was not learned. Jack Wilson who, it is alleged, assisted in the robbery, was picked up some time later but the third man escaped by dodging in among the cars standing in the Lake Shore yards.

Two watches, a diamond ring, two razors, stamps and some small change were secured by housebreakers from the residence of T. W. Barber, 504 E. DuBail av. The house was entered some time last night.

Nothing was learned of the loss until about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Few clues were offered to the investigating detective.

A three-cent piece and an ancient half-dime were among the most valuable small coins taken when the residence of R. O. Cockrel, 412 E. Indiana av., was entered and ransacked. It is supposed that the thieves got into the house some time time in the afternoon for in their hasty search they threw out drawers and disturbed almost everything movable in the house. Nothing else was reported stolen except a small bank with the above mentioned coins.
